

We're all the same
Nilufer K.

We're all humans

No matter the race, the gender or nation

No matter the hair, skin or eyes

No matter the height

No matter the age

No matter the ancestry

We're all the same

All humans.

Ones who try,

Ones who fail,

Ones who cry and laugh and sing and act

Act

Act

Act

Action is what makes us different,

To act to the suffering of others,

To act to the injustice people face,

To act through the fear, through the fright, through everything we've got.

But we also have to stop,

Stop the ignorism,

The discrimination,

And the prejudice

And to be the humans, we should be

We will be.

In the end,

We're all humans

Ones who have faults,

Ones who will never be perfect, no matter what

But, ones who will always try,

Together.
