

Secrets

Michaela J.
Old Donation, 6th grade

Secrets

a secret is such a peculiar thing, don't keep secrets parents seem to sing, a secret can be treacherous, it's creeping, crawling waiting somewhere much to adventurous, a secret can be pleasant, your friends crush or a surprise present, no matter the secret a good friend won't tell, this is why I had a fight that made me scream and yell, a secret can detect a lie, it shuttley hints for the truth to untie, but once you tell your secret it's no longer yours to keep, so trust me when I say not to say a peep,

I had a secret once, one that I never should have told, but only for attention I sold, even though I said those words they tasted like gold, the thing about secrets is that everyone has one, a secret is strange, scary, pleasant, and fun