Title: The Beginning of a New Day

Thus the sun,
So divine,
As if covered in red wine,
Starts a brand-new day.
Still and silent as a house,
The sun goes on its usual routes.
The day goes by,
As still I stare,
As if I can't breathe enough air.
Holding my breath,
I watch it go,
I catch the last glimpse, and so,
Begins again the cycle.
