

The Unknown in Me

The unknown is a place you would not want to go,
A place I did not want to go and can't stand to be,
Away from the world away in my mind,
It's like I'm in an hourglass,
The more time goes by the deeper I get,
The more I walk and wander,
The more I question and ponder where am I?

It's dark,
I can't see,
Leaving me with only my thoughts and questions,
Is there anyone with me?
Why am I alone?
Why are these people so wicked?
Everytime I let them in,
Leaving me to cry and hide,
Pushing me deeper into the dark,
Help, I'm falling.
Pull me out,
I want to get to the light,
Can I be found or find myself?
This is only part of the unknown in me.
