

Winter War
Meshach B.

Old Donation School, 8th grade

White rain sprinkles from the sky
And the ground is covered with snow
Children cheer "Hooray," they cry
Their faces begin to glow
They quickly grab the big winter coats
And wear their winter boots
They quickly eat their breakfast oats
As they begin to recruit
They'll start by picking and athletics ones
Who will score a win for sure
They pretend to load their heavy guns
And get ready to endure
They build tall towers made of snow
To shield them from attack
They lock their targets on the foe
They shoot through the small cracks
The enemies shout "Take cover!"
As they're are smited down
Warriors hide as they recover
But they shan't have a frown
"Grab your ice cold bullet
For we haven't lost yet
We need a catapult so pull it
And eliminate this threat"
So they did as told
And rolled a huge ball
Although their hands were cold
They were ready to win it all!
They made the ball with care
And lifted it nice and steady
But before it shot in the air
They heard "Dinner's ready!"
